and Gazette

TWENTY-THIRD YEAR—NO. 40 | MENLO PARK, SAN MATEO COUNTY, CALIFORNIA, FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 6, 1946 | 5 CENTS PER COPY

Menlo's Portion Of Community Chest Is $4,000

Menlo Park's portion in the forthcoming fund drive of the San Mateo County Community Chest will be $4,000 according to the allocation of quotas for the various towns and districts of the county, as given out this week by Luther M. Carr, Campaign Chairman.

In announcing the County-wide Chest Goal of $107,300, Mr. Carr explained that 90 percent of this fund would remain in the county and be devoted to youth and welfare work. The balance of 10 percent will be allocated to the national chest fund for furthering the work of the United Service Organization (UNO) which continues its wartime aid wherever American troops are located.

Among the local organizations which look to the Community Chest to help them carry on their full scale programs are: Boy Scout Troops, Girl Scout Councils, San Mateo County Blood Bank and the Social Service Exchange. For the last five years these organizations have been receiving their help through the Community Chest and have not been making individual solicitations for assistance. The fund drive will start October 1 for an intensive two week campaign.

PTA Board Meets This Morning

An executive board meeting of the Menlo Park Parent Teacher Association is being held this morning at the home of the president, Mrs. Wallace Ott, 723 College Avenue.

The first regular meeting of the year will be held at the Central School Auditorium on Friday afternoon, September 20 at 3 o'clock. As the meetings are usually held on the second Friday of the month this change in date to the third Friday for the initial gathering is called to the attention of all members.

Parents of children newly enrolled in the schools of this district are especially invited to attenl this September meeting; further detail of the plans for that day will be published next week.

Woman's Club Members Agree 'There's No Place Like Home'

Listening to the entertaining and instructive reports of the varied summer travels of members of the Menlo Park Woman's Club, it was pleasant for new residents of Menlo to hear them all agree that no matter what the extent of their "roaming" they found no place like home. Not one of them considered California an anti-climax after trips to many of the most famous sites of the States.

The occasion for this happy exchange of recent travels was the first meeting of the Club's year; the location was in the charming garden of the Club president, Mrs. Henry Garton, where the business and social program was preceded by a pleasant pot-luck luncheon. Because most of the flowers in this lovely yard spring from plants given to Mrs. Garton by her many friends, she calls it her "Friendship Garden", a name which suits its variety, color and cheer.

In spite of three cases of measles which overtook her three children the day she arrived in Quincy, Illinois, at the home of her husband's parents, Mrs. Wallace Ott reported a wonderful visit with family and friends, and much sight seeing in practically all of the middle-northern states.

Mrs. G. C. Cramer told of sixteen exciting days in Canada, of meeting there old friends of the Orient whom she had not seen for many years, and of the excellent course dinners the family continually enjoyed at prices so reasonable as to remind them of good old prewar days.

Mrs. J. J. Downes also gave enthusiastic descriptions of Candadian hospitality. With Mr. Downes she flew to Victoria for a week.

Mrs. J. L. Bruce confined her travels to Hot Springs, but she highly entertained the group with an account of her stay at the resort.

Mrs. J. A. Buckman enjoyed Tahoe and the nearer points of Pacific Grove and Carmel Valley.

Of the many travellers perhaps Mrs. Elizabeth Gardner and her sister, Miss Ellen Cooledge, went the farthest afield; at least they were away from Menlo for the longest length of time, it being nine weeks from the day of starting until their return to the peninsula. While the many points on their itiniary were visited by both sisters their interests were sufficiently individual as to make the reviews of their sightseeing quite different.

Miss Cooledge gave a very entertaining account of their trips to spots of renown, beginning with the environments of Los Angeles, following through San Antonio, New Orleans, Chatanooga, Chicago and the larger cities on the return trip. Coming by the Great Northern Route Miss Cooledge and Mrs. Gardner had the pleasure of spending some time in Glacier Park.

Mrs. Gardner posponed her report until the first meeting of the Garden and Literary Sections of the Club, which will be held on the third Tuesday of the month at the home of Mrs. C. C. Cramer, 823 Valparaiso Avenue at 1 o'clock.

Being the first meeting of the Woman's Club for the year there were several reports to be presented by different chairmen of departments and quite a little new business which Mrs. Garton, the president, brought before the group. Names of committee members, with their chairmen, as well as those of all officers of the Club, will be given to the press by Mrs Garton for early publication. The year's program, which was briefly outlined and promises to be very worth while, will also be published in full.

Hostesses at the delicious potluck luncheon were Mrs. Robert Ricker, Mrs. J. W. Ryan and Mrs. Jack Glunz. At the next regular meeting, to be held on October 1st at the Presbyterian Church Parish House the following members will act as hostesses for the day: Mrs. J. A. Buckman, Mrs. E. S. Banta, Mrs. J L. Bruce and Mrs. Frank Becker.

Menlo Park To Receive $28,938

Civil Service Exams For Police Officer, Park Employee

Due to the resignation of Police Officer Ray Smith, there are now two immediate openings for positions in Menlo Park for which Civil Service examinations must be taken, that of police officer, with salary starting at $200.00 per month, and for street employee, salary $240.00 per month.

Applications for examinations are secured at the office of the city clerk at the City Hall.

Examinations for park employee is also being given, a position with a monthly salary of $195.00. There is no present vacancy in this office but it is desired to maintain an eligible list for this and other positions.

DR. FORSYTHE HOME

Dr. M. W. Forsythe, for the past three years a Major in the Army dental corps, has been discharged from the service and will resume his dental practice as soon as his offices at 1355 Santa Cruz have been remodeled.

Until the Forsythes secure a home of their own, they will stay with Mrs. Forsythe's parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Hayden at 1265 San Mateo Drive.

CELEBRATES 1ST BIRTHDAY

A big day for a little lad was celebrated at the Edward Silva home on Olive Avenue last Thursday, when the Silvas gave a party for their son, Edward Paris Silva, on his first birthday.

One small candle decorated the red and white birthday cake and Master Edward, with a little help from his mother, opened his birthday gifts and promptly scattered them all over the floor.

Fourteen guests helped little "Eddie" celebrate the important anniversary.

Menlo Park will receive $28,938 of the total of $1,391,737 which is available to San Mateo county and the cities in the county from the funds voted by the legislature under the California construction and employment act, California Taxpayers' association said today.

The act makes $646,959 available to the county, with $155,331 for roads only and $491,628 for roads and other purposes.

Allocations under the act to the cities in the county are: Atherton, $16,947; Belmont, $13,288; Burlingame, $141,580; Colma, $3,144; Daly City, $85,490; Hillsborough, $24,399; Menlo Park, $28,938; Redwood City, $110,608; San Bruno, $57,902; San Carlos, $31,265; San Mateo, $172,338; South San Francisco, $58,879.

"Officials and citizens of cities and counties have a grave responsibility in seeing that the money available to them from the state construction and employment fund is spent wisely and for necessary public works," the Taxpayers' association said.

Laymens Gathering To Be Held At J.C.

The 16th Annual Laymen's Conference of the Episcopal Church will be held at Menlo Junior College over the week end of September 7-9, through the courtesy of the president of the college. The theme of the conference this year will be "Religious Life in a Busy World." Speakers will include the Rev. Canon Eric Montizambert, of Grace Cathedral, San Francisco, the Rev. Charles F. Whiston, of the Church Divinity School of the Pacific, Berkeley, the Rev. W. R. H. Hodgkin, D.D., Mr. M. Anderson Thomas, and Mr. Norman Rushton.

Laymen throughout the Diocese of California will attend the Conference, and a special feature will be a panel of ex-servicemen who will lead a discussion on the topic, "The G.I. Looks Back."

Pedestrian Killed At Ravenswood Crossing Tuesday

James Archdeacon, 42, janitor at St. Joseph's College, Mountain View, was killed Tuesday night on El Camino near Ravenswood Avenue when he was struck by a car driven by Stephen Douglas Tuck, 19-year-old former Stanford student.

Tuck, who gave his address as 100 Santa Paula Avenue, San Francisco, said that the man ran out from between two parked cars directly in the path of his car. He told Menlo police officers, George Potter and Moudakas, who had been driving south on the highway not far behind his car and who arrived at the scene of the accident a few minutes after it happened, that he had been traveling between 20 and 25 miles an hour, and that the accident was unavoidable.

Tuck was questioned by police officers and cited for lack of registration and for failure to wear glasses. After thorough examination he was released.

Mr. Archdeacon was taken by ambulance to Palo Alto hospital where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

Mr Archdeacon, a native of Ireland, is survived by one brother, Daniel Archdeacon of New York. Funeral services will be held at the Roller and Hapgood Mortuary chapel on the arrival of his brother from the east.

Another Business Announces Plans For October Debut

A new beauty shop, "The Mayfair Salon of Beauty," will be opened in Menlo Park on October 1, if everything goes according to plans made by the owners, Faye Miller and Marjorie Simpson Bernardi.

The new salon will be located at 1060 El Camino in the building vacated recently by the AWVS.

The exterior of the building will be remodeled, and the interior will be completely done over in modern design, in pastel shades of rose, jade green and pearl gray. The salon is to be carpeted in French gray. Private booths are being installed with equipment that is modern in every detail. A water-softener will be a part of the equipment.

The partners in the new salon plan to provide complete beauty service for discriminating women. "The Mayfair Salon of Beauty" will carry a full line of nationally advertised cosmetics, and for the convenience of patrons, a paved parking space will be provided in the rear of the salon.

The owners, both residents of Menlo Park, have had considerable previous business experience. Faye Miller will be manager. Marjorie Simpson Bernardi is to be head hair stylist, a position for which she is well qualified, as she has spent 14 years in this branch of beautician work. She received her "Antoine" training with Mr. Lapollo of the White House in San Francisco and was for some time with Roos Brothers in Palo Alto. Mrs. Bernardi will train all the "Mayfair" operators in the "Antoine" Method. Individual and beautiful hair styling will be featured.

ANOTHER GIRL ADDED TO FERRIERA HOME

Another pretty girl joins the three girls in the Joseph Ferriera home on Laurel Avenue.

The Ferriera girls calling cards now read in addition to Bernice, Marjorie and Nadine, a new name—Freeda Mitchell.

Freeda will make her future home with Mr. and Mrs. Ferriera.

Members of the Conference will attend the 11 a.m. service at Trinity Church on Sunday when the Rev. Eric Jackson will preach on "The Cultivation of the Community."

On Monday, at 7:15 a.m., there will be a Corporate Communion for the Laymen's Conference, the Churchmen's Round Table, and the Laymen's Retreat Association. The Rev. Eric Jackson is Chaplain of the Conference.

Menlo Park Schools Prepared To Care For Anticipated Gain

Local Meat Markets Expect To Open Next Tuesday

Menlo Park union meat markets are expected to open this coming Tuesday, September 10, under the agreements reached on Wednesday by the negotiating committees of the union and the Peninsula Retail Meat Dealers Association and Safeway, Lucky and Purity Stores.

The two most important issues of this three months' dispute between butchers and employers are the wage scale and work week, which, according to Milton Maxwell, head of the union, and Fred Schoeneman, chairman of the employers' committee, now seem to be satisfactorily settled.

Monday closing will be left optional with the market operators. The terms of agreement set the work week as Monday through Saturday, with employers having the choice of opening only Tuesday through Saturday, if desired. If the market is opened six days a week the sixth day wage to butchers will be paid at time-and-a-half.

Wage stipulations agreed upon are as follows: Minimum pay of $63 per week for journeymen butchers and $68 per week for head butchers, on a 40-hour week.

Omar F. Hoskins, Federal Conciliator, termed the return to work plan ending the long boycott of 57 San Mateo County meat markets, a compromise. The issue had been dead-locked for weeks over the question of permanent closing of the markets involved in the dispute.

Local markets affected by the recent agreement include Menlo Meat Market, Menlo Fine Foods, Safeway, Duca and Hanley and Menlo Fruit Market.

Menlo Park Elementary Schools are prepared for the considerable increase in enrollment that is expected when schools open next Tuesday. This situation, in which we are more fortunate than most communities, is due to the adequate school housing since the completion of three new rooms last spring, and to a competent full teaching force, according to Supt. O. H. Olson.

Both Central and Fremont Schools will open at 9 o'clock on September 10. Registration of all pupils will continue through the day. Children who come from other school districts must bring their transfers or report cards. Parents registering both Kindergarten and First Grade pupils, unless they have previously been enrolled, must bring birth certificates. The age for Kindergarten entrants must be 4 years, 6 months, on or before Sept. 1, 1946, and for First Grade 5 years, 6 months on or before this date.

Registration at Fremont will be under the direction of Miss Clara Boler, principal of that school. Mrs. Ina Porter and Mr. Olson will take care of the enrollment at Central.

Little change will be made in the curriculum for the year, said Supt. Olson, though it is planned to have a series of teacher-training courses in folk games, folk dancing and art. These courses, which are especially adapted to the need of each district, will often supply more practical help than a summer school course taken away from the field work, according to Mr. Olson.

Teacher assignments for the coming year for Central School are: Mrs. Elizabeth Durkee, Kindergarten; Mrs. Freda Vogel, First Grade; Mrs. Doris Nugent, Second Grade; Miss Mary Anzalone, Third Grade; Miss Gilberta Negro, Fourth Grade; Mr. Francis Watson, Fifth Grade; Miss Mildred Stolberg, Sixth Grade; Mrs. Ruth Rogers and Mrs. Nevada McPherrin, Seventh Grade; Mrs. Ina Portor, vice-principal, Eighth Grade.

At Fremont the teaching force is as follows: Miss Eva Clayton, Kindergarten, Mrs. Marilyn Dyer, First Grade; Miss Clara Bolei, Principal and Second Grade; Miss Lucile Boulware, Third Grade; Miss Leona Goldrup, Fourth Grade.

Orchestra will again be under the direction of Mr. Max Gelber. Mrs. Bess Morozof, the school nurse, will be on a full time schedule for the coming year, and will work out a complete health program with the office of the superintendent.

Traffic Safety will be directed by the Menlo Park Police department, with student assistance.

In addition to his Fifth Grade class work, Mr. Watson will handle the Physical Education for boys. He hopes to work out a satisfactory program which will enable him to spend some time at Fremont School with younger groups.

Mr. Olson again reminds any who may be interested of the Elementary School board meeting at 8 o'clock on Monday night, September 9, when there will be a discussion of a future school site. All Board meetings are open to the public.

LAS LOMITAS SCHOOL

The regular fall school term at Las Lomitas school, in the Las Lomitas School District, will start Tuesday, September 10, according to the principal, Charles H. Niederhauser.

For the convenience of parents with new pupils to be enrolled, the school will open on Saturday, September 7, from 9 until 12, and on Monday, September 9, from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m. This will be an accomodation to all new entrants as well as to those enrolling in the First Grade.

With over a hundred new homes being erected in this district the sudden growth of school enrollments is hard to estimate. An indication of the rate of increasement is easily judged by comparing the number of Eighth Grade graduates last spring with that of the First Grade; the former was eight, the latter, forty.

Menlo Players Guild Plan the Years Program

Thirty-two members and thirteen guests signed the register last Thursday night when the Menlo Players Guild held their last-of-the-month meeting at Central School. Interest in the theater always springs anew when vacations are over and the fall and winter entertainment seasons near; the full attendance at this gathering reflects the enthusiasm of this group for its plans for the future.

Dr. Louis Rothenberg, president of the Guild, explained that membership to this organization is not by invitation but is open to anyone who cares to join, whether he be interested in trying out for plays, doing back-stage work, or just in enjoying himself at one of the social hours.

One does not need to be a member to try out for the plays. The first try-out will be at the regular meeting near the end of September for the play which will probably be given sometime in November. Bob Bettencourt is directing all plays of this coming season.

The Guild met in the Music Room at the school for its business session, but adjourned to the "kitchen" when the call came for refreshments which were served under the direction of Mrs. J. Carnivale, Pat Cole and Mercedes Chehey, with Vernon Barker and Uno Ahlenius acting as kitchen police for this social hour.

Secretary of the Menlo Players Guild is John Drinkrow. Vernon Barker is treasurer. Chairman of the membership committee is Carl Sundquist; of the Play reading committee, Mrs. Jack Yount; publicity committee, Mrs. Jane George (who is also vice president). The new business manager is Steve Butler, who takes the place of Danny Daniels now moving out of the district.

Presbyterian Officers To Hold Annual Planning Conference

Officers of the Presbyterian Church will spend this week end in the Santa Cruz Mountains at their annual planning conference, at which time they will concentrate and consecrate their time to planning the work of the church for the year ahead. The theme will be "The Church in the Atomic Age."

Those planning to attend are: Elders, D. A. MacDonald, Paul Bryant, Harold Wild, Robert Bell, Myron Gibson and Richard Froli; Trustees, Edward Banta, Lloyd Douglas, D. O. Johnson, Martin Johnson, Vince Cleveland, and John Davis Young; Church Treasurers, Fred Hoover and Miss Lucie Vandergon; the president of the Women's Association, Mrs. D. O. Johnson, and the Rev. Don Emerson Hall, will also attend.

Pulpit guest for the 11 a.m. Sunday worship service will be the Rev. Francis Russell, D.D., formerly executive director of the Mt. Hermon Association and a retired Presbyterian minister who will speak on the subject "Christ's Man."

Voluntary Health Insurance Committee Headed By Richard Dolwig

The California Committee for Voluntary Health Insurance, directly opposed to the movement for compulsory health insurance which has been so widely publicized, is launching a San Mateo County's Voluntary Health Insurance Week, starting this Saturday. The program, according to Ed Clancy, executive secretary of the State Committee, is aimed at centering the public's attention on the importance of health and accident protection and the many available safeguards offered by the medical profession, the hospitals, insurance companies and fraternal orders.

Richard J. Dolwig, chairman of the county committee in this health insurance movement, lives in South San Francisco, where he has re-entered the practice of law after his service as Army captain in the war. Mr. Dolwig said that "the California Committee is a rallying ground for all citizens who stand for the perpetuation of our free enterprise system and are opposed to the socalistic idea involved in current attempts to put over compulsory health insurance."

Change In Location of 'Play Day'

Capt. W. I. Turck of the Mounted Patrol of San Mateo County, announces a change in location for the annual "Play Day" of the force and its friends. Formerly planned to be held at the "Lazy Day Ranch," the gala affair will be staged at the Qwerlein Ranch on Portola Road at Woodside.

There are now forty men in the Mounted Patrol who own their own horses and equipment, subject to call under the county sheriff, Jim McGrath. Starting as a defense unit when the war broke out, the patrol continues in both social and practical activities. Proceeds from sale of tickets and refreshments on Sunday will go to the fund that will eventually erect a club house for the Patrol on a five-acre tract in the Woodside district.

The Melancholy Days

When fall comes, every Californian who hails from points east must feel a homesick longing for a sight of that blaze of glory which nature provides when frost tints maple leaves bright red and yellow and turns the oaks to polished gold and brown. Purple astor and golden-rod add their bold colors to the earth, while wind-swept clouds catch up these vibrant tones to blush the evening sky.

Oh it is easy to grow verbose when nostalgia is teasing! There is something about the autumn time which touches off this yearning for one more short visit "back east."

No. Most emphatically we do not wish to move back; we are WESTERNERS, sold on all the privileges of climate, space and freedom which California has offered from the first. And how we love it!

But when the "melancholy days have come" in a town like Menlo they do cause us to close our eyes now and then that we may visualize some charming scene of childhood where fall has turned the end of harvest into a Turner sunset.

If you belong to the working class (as we do) and must spend most of your time in or near the business part of our town, you too, may find that these "saddest of the year" days owe some of their sadness not to the season, but to the dirt.

We see no way to control the dusts of fall in a land where no rain descends all summer and the western winds keep blowing. But dust can be accepted here as a necessary evil. It is more flagrant abominations (than the mote) which irritate our eyes. And we are wondering why something cannot be done about it.

A caustic letter on the subject of "dirt in Menlo Park" was read at last week's city council meeting. No action was taken on the communication (and rightly) because it bore no other signature than "A taxpayer who lives on a dirty street." But those who heard the letter chuckled at its clever tirade. We invite the writer to send us a signed copy that our readers may also enjoy the humor of this "taxpayers" ire.

But is a frowsy front in any town really funny?

Menlo Park has hundreds of lovely homes with landscaped lawns and gardens which reflect the modest, or the extensive, means of their planners. There are many streets where one may walk with delight as he peeps into open gate-ways, over picket fences, or across green bits of precious grass. He knows that these homesites are loved by their owners,—kept clean, watered well, and gardened with pride.

Walking to work from a few blocks west of the highway one soon leaves behind these charming pictures if he follows Santa Cruz Avenue to town. After a grateful glance at the dear little public park, which is always in splendid order, the pedestrian just forgets beauty and hurries on to business.

He hurries on,—and also up and down, since the sidewalk alternately "is" and "isn't" the rest of the way to town. He now has reason to hope that this is but a temporary trial as next spring will surely bring a transformation when the Improvement Area Project gets under way.

In the mean time why must the fall days pass with weeds still higher than the head filling lots and parkways? (See the large vacant corner at University Drive and Santa Cruz) Why, if the city does pay for having lots cleaned, does that "cleaning" confine itself to the discing of the center of some vacant lots, leaving tall growth along the side-walks and fence lines? Cleaning up a lot should be cleaning it up, even if half the work must be done by hand.

Through the venetian blinds of our RECORDER window we face another empty space that is most untidy, but mostly we're too busy to look out, so we read with pleasure little letters appreciating "Beautiful Menlo," like the one on this page which came to our desk from a resident out near Sand Hill Road.

Juvenile Delinquency

It is less a matter for civic pride than for heart-felt gratitude that Menlo Park is free from juvenile crime at a time when a wave of corruption has engulfed so many of our very young in American cities.

This is really a pitable period in our earth's progression (or is it retrogression?) in which to be a child, unless the child make his entry upon the stage of life through sound parentage.

Ours is an era of war-torn homes, with their sorrows and their hardships. Worse than this, it is an age when the ever-frantic speed with which we seek excitement,—entertainmnt of almost any nature, indicates all too clearly how reluctant we are to face ourselves and life's deeper meanings. So we try to by-pass this painful encounter by following every little detour that may possibly lead us to distractions.

Plainly speaking, the demand for continual amusement (or for the forgetfulness that comes with drugs or drink) is nothing more or less than lack of self-dicipline. How then is it possible for a child to get a fair start with parents who do not know this essential, though old-fashioned, virtue? Just ask yourself, "How would I like being born today?"

A few old-timers, whose memories are filled with the physical deprivations of their early years, might be intrigued with a prospect of starting life anew in an age of magical inventions. But most of us realize that at the end of the road, when one faces himself rather than his accumulations, the question which must really concern a world-traveler is not, What have I acquired?; What have I achieved?; but, What have I become? With this in mind we would size up the obstacles which today impede soul progress, and take pause before re-entering the cradle.

We would first of all inquire as to whose hand would rock that cradle. There are too many examples of fine people who have made the best of life in spite of the handicaps of an unfortunate birth, for one to utter dogmatic statements about the necessity of having fine parents. But the generalization certainly holds true that the most important factor in the development of any child is the home influence. And the most important period of that influence can be the days of infancy, and the years we speak of as "pre-school."

The school is a building process of inestimable value, but even the best of educational institutions require something to build upon. This something must include self respect and respect for the rights of others. These are qualities which do not "just grow," like Topsy, but need to be instilled and encouraged by parental example and direction. Mothers and fathers who bestow upon their children both love AND dicipline are not only giving the child the greatest joy possible in his early years but are preparing him to meet whatever the future may hold. It is indeed a fortunate baby who finds himself in a home with parents who understand the privileges and responsibilities of their relationship to their children.

We thank the Police department of Menlo Park for its alertness to the insipient stages of little hoodlum gangs, and for its prompt action in carefully disbanding the culprits before habits become too strong. In this the department renders a genuine social service to the city. We have much reason to appreciate the supervision of the boys' ball teams, which were first organized by the Lions Club, and have been kept going by this organization with the added cooperation of the school and the police department. (Note: Not one of the boys in one of these teams has been involved in any Menlo misdemeanor.)

We gratefully acknowledge the constant supervision and training given the children of our town by the local schools, and thank the PTA for its support of all advancing school activities. We know that the churches in Menlo Park have a strong influence for good over the many children who attend their Sunday Schools.

It is obvious that all groups here are working together for the welfare of the young, and each deserves much credit. But most of all we must congratulate the mothers and fathers of Menlo that our little city is so free from juvenile crime.

Musing and Meandering

EDNA CRANE-BURCHFIELD

Just six months ago, Elsie Cooper, executive secretary of National Transcribers Society for the Blind, on El Camino at Southgate, opened the front door to find a small boy holding in his arms a wounded pigeon.

The bird had either been struck by a car or had flown into electric wires; in any case, both eyes were gone and blood was pouring from the sockets. The pigeon showed no fear of being handled and allowed Mrs. Cooper to bathe his wounds.

As days went by, the little bird's wounds healed and the fact that he would be blind for the rest of his life, was not considered a handicap in a home where those who have lost their sight carry on with confidence and courage.

So far everything was going well and then Mrs. Cooper ran into trouble—she couldn't get the pigeon to eat or drink, and she was in despair at the thought of losing him.

Fortunately she remembered having heard of the pigeon farm at Menlo and got in touch with Edward Quayle who owned the place at the time. He saw at once what was wrong. Pigeons do not eat the same food or in the same manner as other birds and granite grit has to be part of their diet. Also a pigeon does not drink like other birds, but in the same way as animals, with the mouth immersed in water.

Mr. Quayle gave Mrs. Cooper a diet and instructions for feeding the bird. From here on in, it was easy sailing.

Mrs. Cooper named the pigeon "Jimmie," and he became the spoiled and pampered pet of the institution. "Tanya" the terrier, took to him from the start, mounting guard over him and giving him a good scrubbing whenever she thought he needed one. The two are now staunch friends.

Outside of a carrier pigeon, "Jimmie" is the most traveled bird in the world and he travels in style. By automobile or by train, Mrs. Cooper has taken her pet on trips to Washington, Idaho and many other places and as this is being written he is on his way to Mexico. Mr. and Mrs. Cooper put him in the back of the car, but he has learned that by sliding down the front seat, he can sit on their laps and he likes that. When he gets sleepy, he crawls under Mr. Coopers vest and takes a nap. At night he sleeps in a large hand bag hung on a chair.

Everyone in the house pets and plays with "Jimmie." He recognizes his friends by their voices or by the touch of their hands.

He is friendly with all, but will leave anyone to go to Mrs. Cooper. He seems to know the minute she enters the room. I put my hand on his little head and stroked him gently, but he recognized a strange hand instantly, backed away from me and made little pecks at my fingers.

"Jimmie," though his wings are not cut, makes no attempt to fly. Mr. Cooper made a little platform for him, with several steps leading to a perch. He spends his days on this perch in the patio and at night he goes into his "handbag bed."

Photographs of "Jimmie" have appeared in National Magazines and humane societies have sent representatives to see him. He is a beautiful little fellow, pearl gray, touched with iridescent purple, and he rules the institution and everyone in it. There is not enough money in the world to buy him.

"Jimmie" is very lucky and very happy pigeon.

MENLO MINIATURES

Alone on Labor Day, with a hooligan wind and wild goose sky a-teasing me, what better could I do than take a walk out toward the edge of town?

The clouds, the hills and the high oak trees held my adoring attention until, through a gateway, I glimpsed a scene of such perfect rural delight that I paused to let my eyes trespass while I leaned against the gate-post.

Such a picture! A charming house,—not too little, not too big. A combination of garage and barn. A small shed that could hold tools and harness, and another that was home to the hens. And around these clean white buildings were garden patches, flowers and fruit trees.

In a fenced enclosure, near the gate, a Jersey gave me a kindly stare, and a mare with good-sized foal observed me quietly. I saw two ducks, heard several chickens and one turkey,—but I neither heard nor saw a human.

Wherever the owners are, thought I, they certainly can be independent in such a paradise. With telephone, radio, gas, water, electricity; with vegetables, fruits, eggs, milk, cream, butter, chickens,—and even their Thanksgiving turkey, these fortunates seem to be self-sufficient on their tiny farm. They have no need for the town.

A horn behind me ended my dreaming as a small delivery car turned into the driveway. On its shiny green sides was neatly printed, "Diaper Service."

Letters

We invite letters to the RECORDER, requesting that they be moderate in length and carry authentic signature—The Editor.

Editor,

The staff of the Recorder deserves a pat on the back for the very excellent paper that rolled off the press last Friday. Your new editorial page, which I have been waiting for ever since I started taking the Recorder in 1944, is indeed a major improvement to the entire paper. Your "Advance Payment" editorial put me on the right track, as I have always wondered why my Recorder subscription has had to be paid in advance.

It is perfectly evident to me that the Recorder's conscienteous coverage of local news is prompted by a rare sense of loyalty to the community. And I want to take this opportunity to say that I am more than satisfied with Louis J. Stellman's penetrating criticism in "Ratiocinations," Edna Crane-Burchfield's keen sense of humor in "Musing and Meandering," and Portia's veratile creativeness in "Briefs."

Menlo Park now has it's first REAL newspaper ! !

Editors Note: Thank you. Such kind words should keep us on our toes.

Dear Editor,

The City Fathers are busy planning a new metropolis; widening our streets; installing drains; laying out business districts; making laws to insure a clean and beautiful municipality. What about "the inside of the platter?" Are we to still climb that long stairway for a book? Are we,—not to mention our good librarian, Mrs. Vera Johnson,—to swelter through July, August and September in our attic library?

It has long been too small for the city. It should be open every day and evening with an added staff. It should be open Sundays,—let's set a precedent on the Peninsula. It should be on the ground floor, where one can drop in and browse; it should have a magazine department,—now thre is not room.

Our little library under the faithful care first, of Mrs. Abel, now of Mrs. Johnson, has long been one of the drawing cards of the community to many people, but it no longer meets the needs. We do not need to have an expensive building. The plans may be so drawn that they can be added to from time to time.

Why not use Fremont Park for a central, and, already owned, location. There would still be room for a grass plot, and it could still be a Memorial Library. I know of nothing that would do more to stop war than an adequate supply of good books in every community, free to the public.

Editor's Note: Saratoga has a charming little modern library that would look well in our Memorial Park.

WORDS AND CRISES

"Each crisis brings its word and deed," wrote Whittier. But that was before the present Paris Peace Conference. There, words inscribed in the preparation of the final peace treaty have been outnumbered (but definitely) by the crises cropping up daily at the Conference.

At the last reading (or writing) diplomats had agreed on the first one hundred fifty words of the proposed Peace Treaty. With this number as a basis, the old maestro of statistics estimates that approximately thirteen years will be required to complete the Treaty. By comparison the Congress of Vienna, which followed the Napoleonic Wars, would seem to have been jet-propelled. The Congress of Vienna (with the Big Four of 1814 reading England, Russia, Prussia and Austria) convened in September, 1814 and after getting off to a slow start made a speedy recovery and completed its map-making by June, 1815. More permanent than any of the decisions finally adopted, which remained effective for a period of about forty years, was the intense spirit of nationalism, which arose as a result of Napolean's attempts to interfere with the development of European nations. The survival of this nationalistic feeling, magnified by the recent conflict, is one of today's difficulties blocking the road to peace, and is especially exemplified in the Russian attitude.

The following is not an intimate statement of a present day diplomat participating in current conferences. It was written in 1786 by Mirabeau when Catherine II was Empress of Russia. Any similarity between Catherine and Molotov is not purely coincidental, it is a direct result of their intense self-seeking nationalism.

"Thus does this same Russia here as in Poland proclaim her will—This Russia, that for some years past has unequivocally and openly declared that a certain canton of Courland appertained to her, and without seeking any other pretext than that of giving more uniform line to her limits, makes no secret of not understanding any other code, any other claims, any other manifestoes, than those which the Gauls alleged to the Etruscans—"Our right exists in our arms. Whatever the strong can seize upon, that is the right of the strong! Russia will one of these days declare Courland is hers, that the Polish Ukraine is hers, and that Finland is hers. And, for example, this latter revolution, which will be a very salutory one to her because she will then truly become unattackable, and almost inaccessible, to all Europe united, will be effected, whenever she shall make the attempt, if we do not take good heed."

As scientific progress has outmoded transportation methods of the nineteenth centuries, so, also, has it outmoded nationalism as an end in itself. The past century has demonstrated that nationalism and liberty can be preserved in harmony. The world is waiting to see whether in the last half of the twentieth century it is possible to master an international approach, using the foundations of the old nationalism.

Driving west (or north) on Santa Cruz Avenue in the late afternoon, one cannot help seeing the fog rolling in over the mountains,—majestic white billows, soft and slumbrous, or spouting up like a geyser, pointed like a steeple, taking the form of a great cathedral or the sloping roof of a farm house; and when the setting sun adds its colors, shading into red, through green to blue and purple, one cannot help feeling poetic.

"—as clouds of even
flecked with fire and azure, lie in the unfathomable sky."

RATIOCINATIONS

LOUIS J. STELLMAN

Some years before W. W. I., there was a tendency on the part of perfectionists and lovers of preciousity to deplore as uncouth and outmoded the "rugged individualism" of Americans. Many referred to certain forthright habits of our ancestors apologetically as naive and adolescen, pointed with pride to the deeper sophistication we had at long last assimilated from Europe.

Perhaps, because I am the product of a bygone generation, I was not convinced by this effete and precious sophistry, as it seemed to me. I gloried in the army chaplain's cry of "Praise God—and pass the ammunition." I shouted "Hurrah!" for the message, "Send us more Japs" from Wake Island; and I glowed with delight when Bostoyne's commander said "Nuts!" to a German beseiger's call for surrender.

The other day, I had a final proof that "rugged individualism" has not gone out the window with two wars and a quarter of a century's cultural infection from abroad. Wide-eyed and jubilant, envious and eager, I watched a man eat peas with his knife. I haven't seen that done for, lo, these many decades. I had written it off as a lost art.

Once it was common enough in the country hotels where teamsters, blacksmiths and other salt of the American earth partook of their dinners at noon. I used to watch them, as a child, and wonder at their skill. Of course, if you mix your peas with mash potatoes, almost anyone can do it. But the real experts of those days disdained such practices. By a nicety of balance and a knowledge of sword-swallowing, little less than miraculous they conveyed long, perfectly-spaced assembly lines of round and rolly vegetables from plate to gullet, seldom dropping a pea. It was, I tell you, something for the book.

If you don't believe me, try it. I did; and I never got to first base. I can eat with Chinese chop sticks, which also takes practice. But carrying peas to my mouth on a knife-blade—that is beyond me. I'll bet you there isn't one in ten thousand who can stand up in a contest with my friend at the wayside lunch. I should have taken his name and address. I wish I had invited him to the Rotary—or the Press Club. He would have been priceless as an attraction—better than any guest speaker in the world.

But he wouldn't have accepted, I'm afraid. An art like that, handed down from father to son, no doubt since Bunker Hill, is not to be commercialized or vulgarly paraded. Even Luther Burbank, I am certain, couldn't do it. There were rumors that he tried to breed a square pea which would not roll off the knife. But, apparently he failed.

Your City's Business

CHARLES P. BURGESS

As yet that portion of Dibble Hospital which is desired by the City Council as a civic center for Menlo Park has not been declared surplus. It is now in the hands of Stanford University as custodian for Federal Public Housing Authority, and probably will remain there a month or more longer until reconversion has been completed at Stanford Village. We have no basis for estimating the price which the Federal Government will ask for it, but have been assured that in consideration of the use to which it is to be put, the figure will be very reasonable.

Undoubtedly a bond issue, to spread the cost over twenty or twenty-five years, will be the most desirable method of financing the purchase, for in this manner the annual payments will be a negligible part of the tax rate, and future residents of the city moving into new homes will help pay for the property.

The operating and maintenance costs of the civic center will be another matter. The City has reached its legal tax rate limit of one dollar per hundred; so no further burden can be imposed upon the taxpayers. Among the funds released for the new operation are rent and operating costs of the present city hall, and rent of the shed housing the street department. Much of the balance must come from charges for the facilities themselves.

The swimming pool will, without question, more than pay its own way. The gymnasium, rented as a civic auditorium for such functions as dances, drills, exhibitions, etc., should also provide a surplus. Similar results would be anticipated of the theatre. Rentals from the County Library, civic clubs, etc., also would be substantial. All this income would be used solely for the maintenance of the buildings and the park, and would be supplemented by the annual apportionment of part of our present park budget to "Civic Center Park." As Menlo Park's assessed valuation grows through new building and annexation of present unincorporated territory, the greater city revenue would ease the operating problem and permit expansion of activities at our community center.

Paging Mr. Stellman

REGISTRATION FOR NOV. GENERAL ELECTION

"Time in which to register and become qualified to vote at the November Election is becoming shorter and shorter" advised County Clerk W. H. Augustus today.

September 26 is the last day upon which registrations may be taken to qualify as an elector at the General Election on Novefber 5.

Many persons who changed their residence without re-registering were unable to vote at the Primary Election as a result, and all such persons desiring a vote in November should make the slight effort required and re-register at their current address.

In addition, all personnel of the Armed Forces who voted under a temporary "War Voters Affidavit of Registration" must re-register upon their return to civilian life in order to enjoy their full privilege of voting in this state.

New residents in the area are required to have 1 year's residence in California, 90 days in San Mateo County and 40 days in their precinct.

It can be done at the city clerk's office in the city hall, or, if more convenient, by contacting any one of the following deputies:

Menlo Park: Mrs. Doris E. Baker, 1944 University Avenue; Mr. Floyd Baker 1944 University Avenue; Mr. Frank S. Becker, 1235 Laurel Avenue; Mr. Gilbert G. Byrne, 460-7th Avenue; Mr. Joseph L. Connolly, 440 Arlington Way; Mrs. Gladys A. Gabert, 555 Encinal Avenue; Mrs. Dortha M. Hill, 2325 Palo Verde Avenue; Mrs. Ruth A. Lew, 1197 Beech Street; Mr. Paul Lyman, 1031 Sevier Avenue; Mrs. Edna Lewis Morton, 519 Central Avenue; Miss Emma Noel, 440 Ravenswood Avenue; Mrs. Florence E. Ohler, 1187 University Avenue; Mr. Houard Stafford, 109 Live Oak Avenue; Mrs. Alvina Wipfler, 1034 Pine Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Horn were dinner hosts Saturday night at their home on 657 Middle Avenue given in honor of Mrs. Horn's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Podany, who with their daughter Beverly, are here on a visit from their home in Alhambra.

The affair was also a farewell party for Mrs. Ray Fickes who left Monday to visit her father and mother in Minneapolis. She will stop en route at El Paso and New Orleans, and will fly from Chicago to her parents' home.

Mrs. Fickes will be away from Menlo for two weeks.

RUSSIAN RIVER VACATION

Mrs. Alvina Wipfler, Pine Street, left last Sunday, with her daughter, Mrs. Keneth Sawyer of San Carlos and the latter's two children, Nan and Tommy, for a weeks vacation at Guerneville on the Russian River.

They will stay at Murphy's Guest Ranch. This is the second vacation this year for Mrs. Wipfler and her daughter at the Russian River resort. The first trip earlier in the summer, proved so enjoyable, that they decided on another one before the season closed.

The travelers will return in time to enroll Mrs. Sawyer's daughter at Notre Dame Convent at Belmont.

ELECTION OFFICERS NEEDED FOR GENERAL ELECTION

The General Election to be held November 5, 1946 will require the services of approximately 2000 qualified electors of San Mateo County as precenct officers.

Election officers are chosen in the order of the receipt of their applications, giving due consideration to prior service and the qualifications of the applicant. With the growth of the county, many new qualified electors are needed for each county-wide election held, and regardless of past experience, many untrained officers must be appointed to fill the required number of vacant or new posititions.

Any person wishing to serve as an election officer at the November Election should obtain and complete the required form immediately, forwarding it at once to the Election-Registration Department, which is under the jurisdiction of County Clerk W. H. Augustus at the Courthouse, Redwood City. Application forms may be obtained at the Menlo Park City Hall (City Clerk's office) or at the office of the Election-Registration Department at the Redwood City Courthouse.

OPEN HOUSE

The deep Peninsula has a high tradition of sociability. Life takes its tempo from the slow warmth of a golden sun and the brisk crispness of salt breezes, creating moods of tranquillity and gaiety, while hospitality becomes a gracious habit.

Returning to the attractive prewar custom of holding open house, the Woodside-Atherton Garden Club will give a Garden Tour. The affair will take place on Thursday, September 12, and the homes to be visited are those of Mr. and Mrs. William W. Mein, the Willard Somers, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Buck, the Francis Crosbys and the Stewart Elliotts.

Blending into the green backdrop of oaks and bronzed hills is the residence of the Bucks, a Tudor mansion with walls of mellow rose-colored brick, many tall, clustered chimney stacks, steep slated roofs and mullioned, diamond leaded windows.

The entrance to the estate is flanked by lion-capped gateposts. The driveway winds through sloping lawns bordered by incense cedars with the background of massive oaks.

The drawing room has a cathedral ceiling. The color scheme is based upon a magnificent antique imperial yellow Chinese cut-velvet tapestry, four yellow Sienna marble columns, and an antique Roman marble seat.

The great halls have high vaulted ceilings and graceful Gothic arches. The dining room is done after the manner of the English Regence style and the charming breakfast room is done in Satsuma decor with coral accents, an adaptation of the Chinese Chippendale.

An ardent garden enthusiast, Mrs. Buck gives her personal supervision to the plantings and the well kept lawns.

Following the tour next Thursday there will be a tea hour at the Crosby home. Assisting Mrs. Crosby will be Mesdames Edward Eyre, Edward Mills, Selah Chamberlain, Frank Ingersoll, De Lancy Lewis and Miss Olga Meyer. Receiving at Mrs. Buck's home will be Mesdames Silas Palmer, Cleveland Forbes, Harold Smith, Lancelot Gamble, Warrington Dorst and Edward McNear. Mrs. Elliott will be assisted by Mesdames John Baldwin, Polk Dodson, Jr., Storey Wright, Robin Sutton, Douglas McBryde, Samuel Pond, William Girvin. At Mrs. Somers there will be Mesdames Blake Darling, Phillip Fitzgerald, Brewster Davison, Lional King, W. A. B. Hayne, Alexander Field and Arthur Hooper while helping Mrs. Mein will be Mesdames Alan Chickering, Ralph Davies, Alexander Donald, Sumner Hardy, Marshall Dill, Samuel Eastman and Paul Fay.

Mrs. Walo Coleman is president of the garden club. Mrs. McBryde is chairman of the tour with Mrs. Covington Pringle, refreshment chairman; and Mrs. Walter Boardman, ticket chairman. Also serving on the committee are Mesdames Garton Keyston, Louis Garat and Edward McNear.

The affair is open to the public and proceeds are used for civic projects in Woodside. Tickets may be purchased at any of the homes or at the Peninsula Ticket Office in Palo Alto.

SEPTEMBER

With September there is an exodus of summer colonists while localites return from mountains, and the shore.

● Dr. and Mrs. Frank Hand and their small daughters, Caroline and Lorayne, who have been occupying the Henry M. Leicester home on Menlo Oaks Drive for the summer, return to San Francisco next week.

● Home from their sumner home at Lake Tahoe are the Bruce Kelhams.

AT HOME

The Tom Dolans with their small son returned last week from Auburn, N. Y. where they were guests of Mr. Dolan's mother, Mrs. James Dolan.

ANNIVERSARY

Both the Mother's Club and the Men's Club of St. Joseph's School are making plans for the observation of the 40th Anniversary of the school. The affair will be held on September 22.

The Mother's Club will meet next Thursday morning at 10:30 to formulate plans and on September 16 there will be a joint meeting of the Mother's Club and the Men's Club at 8 o'clock in Mother Foley's Gymnasium.

COUNTRY CARNIVAL AND FAIR

An exact replica of the Farmers' Market in Los Angeles is to be a part of The Country Carnival and Fair being given by the Woodside-Atherton Junior Auxiliary of the Stanford Convalescent Home. The gala event, which is open to the public, is set for September 14 at the Menlo Circus Club. Already ordered are 3000 chickens while master chefs are dreaming up delectable sauces to delight an epicure.

Colorful booths will be placed throughout the club grounds. There will be crisp salads, spicy Spanish dishes, a seafood bar, the traditional hamburgers and hot dogs, and a variety of desserts and beverages.

Attractions include a circus, with kingsize live elephant; an aquacade, games, glamorous exhibits portraying present and future living, with a dance and dance contests highlighting the evening hours. There will be the traditional concessions of a carnival's gay way.

A dramatic feature of the day will be the awarding of three coveted prizes, a NEW automobile, a washing machine, and a case of Scotch.

The affair is open to the public with proceeds going to the Convalescent Home for Children. Tickets may be purchased at the gate. Committee heads include Mesdames Leland Rosener, Jr. chairman of the Auxiliary; Ernest Sultan, Jr., Robert Meese, Moylan Fox, Frank Seelig, Peggy Koenig, W. N. Mixter, Robert Marble, Huntley Castner, Hugh David Phillips, Henry Kuechler, Jr., Gordon Dennis, William McDowell, Horton Westler, Henry Beaumont Martin, Irving Randall, Jr., Archie Stevenson, William Mackenzie, William Mahaney and Miss Gladys Mills.

ON TOUR

Fall finds the accent on travel. Mr. and Mrs. Conrad C. Kriemler left last week for a stay at Banff and Lake Louise. They will continue on to Quebec and Montreal and then to New York, returning west by way of New Orleans.

COCKTAIL PARTY

Last Saturday evening preceding the dinner dance at the Menlo Country Club Miss Gertrude Keyston and her brother, Bill, entertained with a cocktail party at the home of their parents the Garton Keystons.

HOME FROM NEW YORK

Last weekend the Stanley Hillers planed back after a ten day stay in New York and Washington, D. C.

HOLIDAY HUNT

Mr. and Mrs. Warrington Dorst and sons, Michael and Tommy, spent the holiday weekend in Paso Robles initiating the opening of the dove hunting season.

PETALS FROM THE BRIDE'S BOUQUET

One of the last of the summer weddings was solemnized Saturday, August 31, at the Stanford Memorial Chapel when Jane Sudekum became the bride of Lieutenant Bruce McClelland USNR. It was an all-white wedding. Jane was gowned in white satin, fashioned with fitted bodice and full skirt, which cascaded into a graceful train. The fingertip length veil was held in place by a satin half cap.

Jane's attendants were frocked in identical white net dresses with high round neckline, deep yokes, edged with a ruffle which also formed cap sleeves. Mrs. Theofil Linhart, Jr., (Mary Lou Linsley) was matron of honor and Mrs. William Minette (Marthagrace Powell) and Jane's sister, Ann Sudekum of Phoenix, Arizona, were the bridesmaids.

Little Joan Linsley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Linsley III was the flower girl.

The bridegroom's brother, Glenn McClelland of Saratoga was best man. Ushers were Gilman Gist, Jr. of Palo Alto and George Jorgenson of Saratoga.

Following the ceremony there was a garden reception at the Lindenwood home of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Linsley, Jr.

Motoring north to attend their daughter's wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sudekum of Phoenix, Arizona.

ARCADY

The beauty and quaintness of old Arcady will be highlights of the trip planned by the J. Earle Mays. Mr. and Mrs. May plane to Buffalo the middle of September and from there go to Montreal where they will embark on the Saguenay River Cruise through French Canada. They expect to visit the Laurentian Mountain District, which still retains such old world customs as the hand-spinning of thread and transportation by ox carts. After touring New Brunswick and Nova Scotia the Mays will continue down the east coast to Boston and New York, to be on hand for the World Series games. They will return to their home in Menlo Park the middle of October.

$1.00 worth of gas will operate an average room-size circulating heater for over 40 hours.

The Cost of Gas and Electricity has gone DOWN and DOWN
$1 WORTH OF GAS NOW 27¢
$1 WORTH OF ELECTRICITY NOW 65¢

Like steps down to a Bargain Basement — that's how the price of gas and electricity for home use has gone down.
FIVE TIMES your electric rates have been marked down since 1930 for a total reduction of 35 per cent.
SEVEN TIMES since 1930 the cost of gas has been stepped down for a total reduction of 73 per cent.
Yes, it costs more to produce and distribute gas and electricity today — much more — but there has been no inflationary rise in our rates to the average home customer.

A. H. SAGEHORN TO HEAD VET CHRISTMAS COMMITTEE

A. H. Sagehorn, San Mateo county treasurer will head the Veteran Hospital Christmas Committee of the Peninsula, whose purpose is remembering at Christmas time the sick and wounded men and women who were in the armed forces. This year the Committee by co-ordinating all veteran fraternal, civic service and labor organizations will bring Yuletide cheer to the Veterans' Administration Facility at Palo Alto.

Mr. Sagehorn said that this effort would in no way take the place of the monthly entertainment provided at the hospital by various groups. "It simply supplements without interfering," he pointed out, "to bring some joy and happiness at Christmastime to those who did so much for us."

This Christmas committee was organized in San Mateo County last year as an American Legion suggestion as a non profit body of all-citizens non political, non sectarian to unite the Christmas endeavor in bringing some cheer to the hospitalized veterans of the area.

Goal of the plan said Mr. Sagehorn this year is to see that every room and ward of the Veterans' Facility at Palo Alto is decorated. It is also planned to have individually wrapped gifts and a series of shows and entertainment throughout the holidays that will reach every bedriden patient.

The Recorder will publish subsequent plans of this committee and give local headquarters for its activities in future issues.

BENEFITS FOR FAMILIES OF DECEASED VETERANS

Social Security benefits are now payable to survivors of service men who have died within three years following the date of their discharge. This information was brought to the RECORDER office by Edward Foley, Manager of the Social Security Field Office in San Mateo.

If in the event of death of a veteran the family is not already receiving compensation or pension, this ruling will enable them to obtain some immediate benefit under social security.

Payments are retroactive to the date of death, therefore inquiries should be made at once since applications filed after February 10, 1947 will be retroactive for only three months at the most.

The Social Security office in San Mateo is at 308 Baldwin. It is open Monday through Friday from 8:30 to 5. Each Wednesday afternoon Mr Foley will be in Redwood City from 1 to 4, at 2000 Broadway, and may be questioned there.

LEAVE FOR PIEDMONT

Bishop Alvernaz is on a combined business and vacation trip in this country and is visiting his brother, Father Alvernaz, of San Leandro.

Lecturer Adrian Ward acted as Master of Ceremonies and introduced the Bishop, his brother, Chaplain Fr. McKeon of the Palo Alto Council, and Grand Knight Bill Wilson, Jr. The Bishop addressed a few remarks to the assembled Knights and their families and briefly sketched the history of Christianity in India. His Diocese is located in the Cochin-Malabar area where about a third of the total Catholic population of one and a half million reside. This region is considered the cradle of Christianity in Asia as St. Thomas, arriving by boat from Italy, first preached the Gospel of Christ here.

Concluding his remarks, Bishop Alvernaz spoke of the need of Christian Missionaries, especially Americans, in India. The war years have greatly depleted the ranks of both Protestant and Catholic staffs.

While on the Peninsula, His Excellency visited St. Patrick's Seminary in Menlo; the Jesuit Retreat House, El Retiro at Los Altos; and then blessed the recently-born twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Haas of this city.
